

Traffic Light

Show Me The Men, And I'll Show You The Boys

Traffic Light is about three guys in their thirties, their enduring friendship and the very different cards that life deals them.

Itzko manages his father's magic store. He's married to Lilach, an assertive, career-driven journalist, and is the father of seven-year-old Danielle. Amir, a director of union social events, is in a committed relationship with Tali... and her dog. Heffer, the perpetual bachelor, can't manage to hold down a steady job, and is constantly getting into all kinds of messy situations with women.

Like all good friends, Itzko, Amir and Heffer are only too happy to offer each other advice about their personal problems – whether emotional or practical. But as each friend's perspective is based entirely on his own circumstances, suggestions inevitably range from the inappropriate to the downright ridiculous! Traffic Light is all about friends navigating life together, always with hilarious results.

Four series of the show have aired in Israel and seasons three and four smashed ratings records when they premiered.

CTC's Russian adaptation of Traffic Light has run to 10 seasons, with two successful seasons produced for TV3 in Lithuania and Fox adapting the format in the US. In addition, KI has also sold the format in Greece (Open TV), Slovakia (TV JOJ) and the US (Fox).
