Undercover Investigators Put Tradesmen's Professionalism To The Ultimate Test

When you call out that specialist plumber, electrician or handyman, you expect the job to be done right the first time, and you'd like to be treated fairly – but can you trust a tradesman you know nothing about except for their ad in the local directory?

By presenting real-life situations, Fair & Square puts professional tradesmen to the test and shines a light on the ones who are honest experts in their field.

A trusted journalist host is present at each undercover operation when we call on the services of various individuals and businesses to do simple repair jobs. Caught on camera, we spectate as some fraudsters fail to repair the problem and use the cheapest tricks to cheat the unwitting consumer. However, unlike other consumer shows, Fair & Square focuses on praising those who prove to be professional, trustworthy and offer consumers real value for their money.
