They Say Time Is Money, And They're Right!

Clockwise is a fast-paced trivia game show where the tension mounts as contestants attempt to beat the ultimate rival - the clock. The rules of the game are simple: every second is worth money.

In each round, contestants give as many correct answers as possible. With questions like "How many Spanish-speaking countries can you name?", it sounds easy, right?

With Clockwise, there's no time for hesitation. Players have only 15 seconds to provide the minimum number of correct answers and progress.

After five rounds, our player faces with one final question to win all the cash they've accumulated so far, risking all or nothing. Do they take their time or take the money?

Clockwise is the high-risk game show with no exit points. Are you smart enough to take on time?
