Heavy Duty Rescue Missions On A Supersized Scale

Have you ever driven past an accident involving a heavy goods vehicle and wondered how a fully-loaded, 40-ton truck is recovered? These heavyweight transport jobs require even larger vehicles to perform them, and a team of super-sized specialists to make them happen.

Follow the daily expeditions of family-owned, heavy rescue company Crouch Recovery as they risk life and limb to perform their extreme rescue missions and keep Britain's roads moving.

With an exceptional fleet of state-of-the-art, super-heavyweight vehicles at their disposal, Crouch's entertaining and memorable team of rescue drivers are the unsung heroes of Britain's highways – recovering truck rollovers, crashes, breakdowns and jackknifed lorries from often hellish situations.

No matter the time, place or weather conditions, these motorway rescuers race to the scene of the accident and save the day. With the police, highways agencies and their customers all breathing down their neck, Crouch Recovery must deliver results – and fast!

Trucking Hell offers a rare glimpse into the bustling world of trucking and heavy vehicle rescue as cameras capture the entire recovery mission cycle from receiving the emergency call to wrapping up the scene.
